was higher the hitter.

As September came to the year, we came to Centralsome eleven hundred of us altogether. We were ready to leave the lazy, hazy days of summer behind and begin on learning -Our Great Adventure

And learn we did! Whether studying in the classroom, cheering our team on to victory, or attending one of the many 🙏 clubs at Central, we learned.

We learned the importance of a good education by doing English and trying to figure out those funny little equa- imestions in physics . . . by missing our favorite TV program to do that last bit of homework . . . by thinking about college and dreaming of a tomorrow enriched by knowledge.

We learned the value of friendship by going to dances and chib meetings, making new friends all the while . . . by chating with our friends in front of lockers just before the last homeroom bell rings . . . going to the senior play with that certain someone.

ball games, cheering our team on . . . we attended school TO QUICL School functions and behaved properly . . . we were functions and behaved properly . . . we were on time with our lessons, which were done to the best of our ability. We were loyal to our school, our friends, and our ideals.

Yes, we learned many things at Central this were him.

most of all, we learned that school is a potpourri of many swill know the exciting activities that together make the exciting activities that together make learning a wonderful jou, Best of his experience—Our Great Adventure!

Central's Lettermen's Club put up an "Outside Activity" sign on the front lawn this year. The sign lists all activities which take place at Central each week. Shown checking the date of a football game are Principal Paul Spuller, Amos Van Pelt, president of Lettermen's Club; Robert Dille, faculty adviser, and Leonard Hairston, vice-president of the club.

Students do major part of learning in classroom

Centralites laughed and had fun, but the major portion of their time was spent in seriousness. They spent hours in the classroom learning and more hours at home learning to learn.

They found square roots, suffered the agony of Hamlet, toyed with atoms, prayed during final exam week, and read countless books for loathsome term papers. They sawed wood, did gymnastics, fooled around with id, studied Washington and Lincoln, and cooked dinners.

Their moment of truth came every six weeks when grade cards came out. Even among the best students, there was a certain amount of anticipation and heart failure. Some students were pleased with their grades and couldn't wait to show their family. Some weren't so pleased and could only hope to do better next time. Whether their cards were good or bad, they all gained at least a little bit of knowledge.

Whether they were in English class, wood shop, gym, or home economics, they were all aiming for graduation.

Some were shooting for more than a good grade or two. They were trying to develop a thirst for knowledge, a wide variety of interests, and an understanding of their purpose in life. They were the hunters, pursuing every last bit of knowledge till it was theirs.

They are the ones who will be able to say, "Central, now there's a place where you can learn something."

consumer education class while Mr. Dellinger helps Allan Collins.

Mr. Schneider, in his first year at Central, taught sociology and government. Here, he discusses a problem as Jim Potts listens.

Senior Neil Brown tests a solution during an experiment in Chemistry class. Good lab technique is an important part of Chemistry.

Centralites spend spare time at club meetings

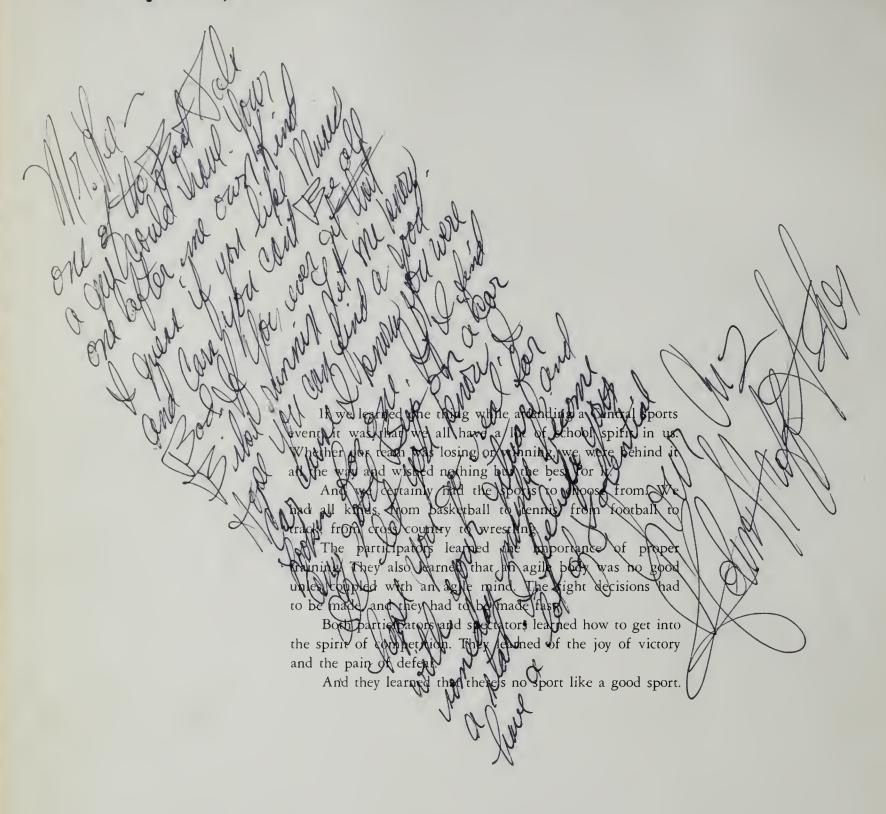

Richard Woods, Larry Wray, and Richard Levereign practice for the Valentine Pep Session. Centralites took part in many events this year.

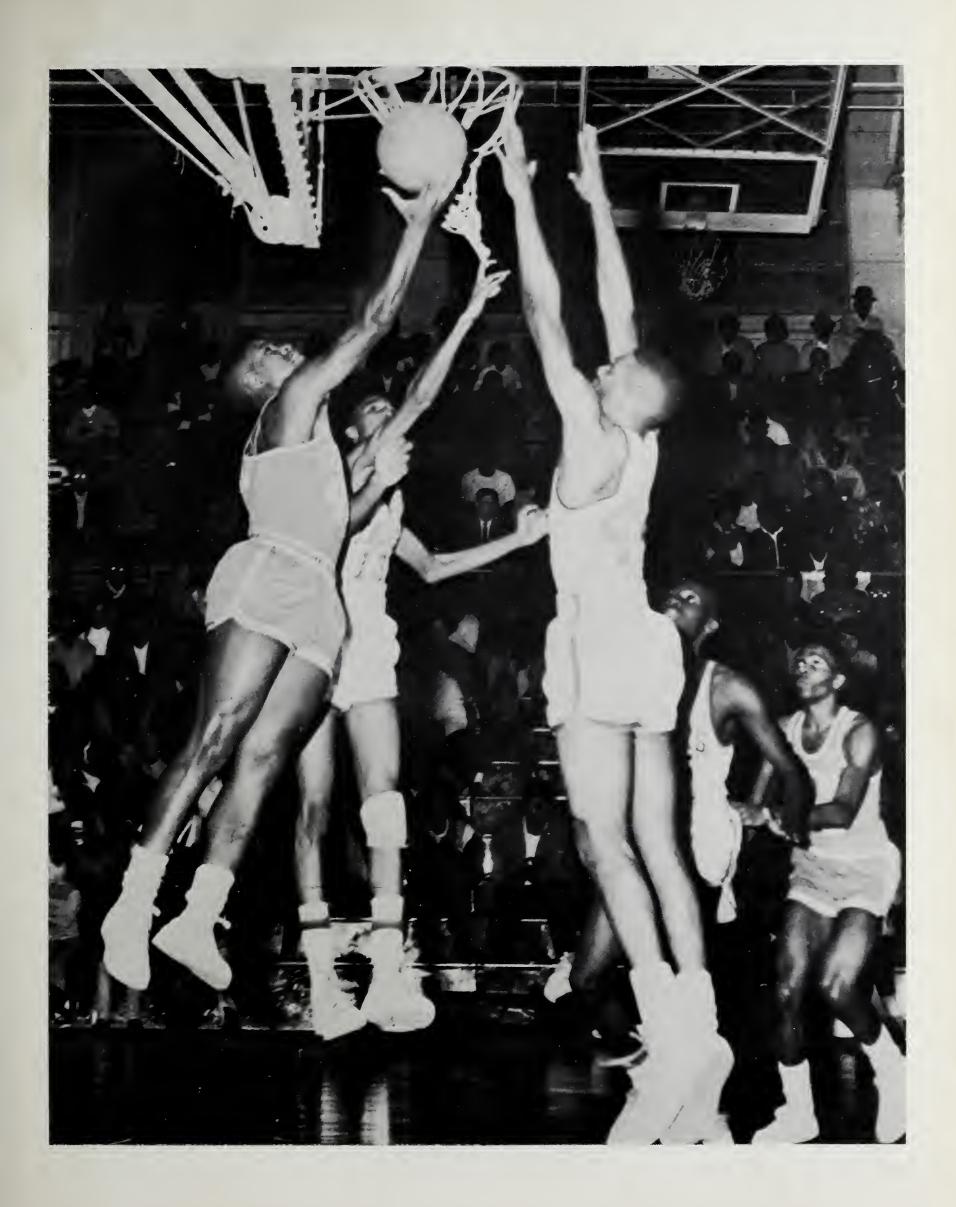

Band members, under the direction of Mr. Keith Morphew, practice in the auditorium before their first concert of the year. Mr. Morphew was new to Central this year and brought many new ideas with him to improve the band.

In sports, we learned of victory and defeat

Last spring, after the '64 Caldrons were issued, Centralites spent spare minutes getting autographs of their friends. Here Darnell Johnson signs a Caldron in study hall.

Central's cafeteria provides a place for students to relax and talk over the day's events while eating lunch as Lyle Lantz does.

Betty Jones, service worker, checks through the files under the guiding eyes of Mrs. Vallance, head librarian.

John Burt pays a cashier after going through the lunch line in the cafeteria. Centralites are offered two types of food lines.

Library, study hall, cafe fill Tigers' leisure time

The free periods of the Centarlites were few and far between. But what free periods they did have were spent either in the library, study hall, or cafeteria.

Most of the students looked forward to a quiet(?) lunch in the cafeteria. Many spent the entire period catching up on a day's eating. Some used part of the period for studying, some for extra-curricular activities. Many students went downtown to eat lunch and to shop.

Studies which were negelected at home usually got a quick going over in study hall before class. Some students did next day's work during their study hall periods. A few tried to catch up on a little sleep.

Those who didn't want to go to study hall went to the library. If they didn't want to study, they could read magazines, or glance through books, or view some of the various filmstrips which the library has.

These free periods provided a rest in between the brain demanding classroom. And whether the students used them to eat or to work or to sleep, they certainly enjoyed them.

Willie Pearl Howell and Leonard Hairston eat lunch in the cafeteria before resuming classes, as Rosalind Paige finds a seat.

Watusi, frug, swim, jerk find way to Tigertown

Centralites really went crazy at the Friday night dances this year. The frug, the watusi, the swim, and the jerk were all introduced. The cafeteria looked like a convention of rain dancers

Perhaps the biggest change, and certainly improvement, at the dances this year was the fact that nearly every dance had a live band. Among some of the bands the students danced to were Lula Martin and her Supremes, Tyrone and the Upsetters, The Palisades, and the Telecasters.

Next to the Junior Prom, the biggest dance of the year was the Poor Man's Prom. The Poor Man's Prom was a spoof of the regular prom, during which a "Miss Centralite" was chosen from a group of boys dressed like girls. It was a dance sponsored by the Caldron staff.

Friday Night Dances provided entertainment for many Central students. Live bands, like the Upsetters, brought large crowds.

Lyle Lantz and Connie Roberts enjoy a dance in September. The dance, "Tigertown Leap", was sponsored by the Spotlight.

Juniors Jim Johnson and Sarah Brown dance to one of the faster numbers which was played at one of Central's Friday night dances.

Don Ertel greets two beauties, Rick Tielker and Lyle Lantz, as they appear at the 1964 Poor Man's Prom in their outfits.

Two freshmen seem to enjoy a slow dance at the party which is given every year for Central's newcomers in the cafeteria.

Prom couples watch Cindy Yarman crowned queen

Mike Overby and Lyle Lantz look on while George Snook, Bill Etzler, and Dennis Norman help decorate for the Junior Prom of 1964.

Nancy Tieman, last year's Queen, crowns Cindy Yarman, Prom Queen as crownbearer Kim Renee Yarman looks on. After being crowned by Nancy, Cindy then reigned over "Three Coins in a Fountain," the 1964 Junior Prom. The grand march followed immediately after the crowning which marked the beginning of the Italian-set Prom. The Prom took place in Central's cafeteria on May 2.

Charming Prom Queen Cindy Yarman is shown here with her court of eight. Cindy's court consisted of Norma Hides, Linda McCray, Sherri Kreigh, Linda Edmonds, Anita Adams, Lorine Harris, Dorothy Chambers, and Candy Roberts. The 1964 Junior Prom theme was, "Three Coins in a Fountain." It took place on May 2 in Central's cafeteria.

Cindy Yarman reigned as queen of the 1964 Junior Prom, "Three Coins in a Fountain," on Saturday, May 2, in the cafeteria. Her escort for the affair was Steve Odier.

Cindy's court consisted of Anita Adams, Linda Edmonds, Linda McCray, Sherry Kreigh, Lorine Haris, Dorothy Chambers, Norma Hides, and Candy Roberts-

Cindy and her court entered the cafeteria through a rose arbor, which consisted of red, white, and pink roses on trellises. Directly through the door they perceived not the cafeteria we know, but a beautiful Italian ballroom.

The queen's throne was a white wrought iron chair on a white, three step platform. On each side there were red curtains, and in the back of it there were two white trellises covered with red roses.

Three gold Roman coins hung in front of the throne. In the middle of the dance floor, there was a small fountain which, at intervals, spouted red, white, and pink water.

After dancing to the music of Dick Seegar amid these glorious decorations until the magic hour of midnight, the happy couples went to the Hobby Ranch House for the after prom party, where they were entertained by the Counts.

Whether it was Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving

Senior Rick Tielker portrayed Jesus Christ in the Easter Program. Other seniors who also participated in this annual special assembly in honor of Easter were Marilyn Tyler, Darlene Adams, Margie Burnette and Robert Gick. They were the Disciples.

Central students depicting the nativity scene in the Student Council program are Clyde Williams, Dennis Isbell, Mike Houser, Connie Roberts, Sally Denny, and Richard Cline. Christmas baskets were presented by the Student Council to the Christmas Bureau.

In last year's Easter Program, James Simmons, directs questions to Mr. Stotts (Hope) and two Fort Wayne ministers representing Hope and Faith. The program took place in Central's gymnasium.

students of Central showed reverence for ideals

Senior Cindy Yarman gives a speech before Central's student body at the annual assembly in honor of Thanksgiving Day.

The members of the student body felt a strong sense of reverence and tradition as they viewed the beauty and splendor of one of Central's three holiday programs. They were worshipping silently as they viewed the Easter Program, the Thanksgiving Program, and the Christmas Basket Program.

At the Thanksgiving program, the students gave thanks for good homes, enough food to eat, the privilege of going to school, good grades, and perhaps that big turkey that was waiting at home for them.

Next came Christmas. Centralites gave their spare canned goods so the needy could eat on Christmas. And in connection with the canned goods, there was the Christmas Basket Program. While celebrating the birthday of Christ, the students thought about a white Christmas, filled with the smells of a holiday dinner cooking, and dry Christmas trees, and their presents under the tree.

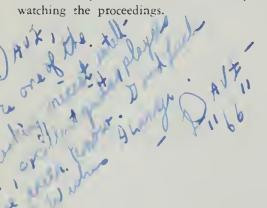

Easter brought new meaning to the lives of Centralites as they commemorated the resurrection of Christ, but forgot all about the Easter bunny, at the Easter Program.

The programs meant a lot to the students. They meant a chance for the students not only to get out of class but to them to renew their faith in what they believed in and make the school year a little more bearable.

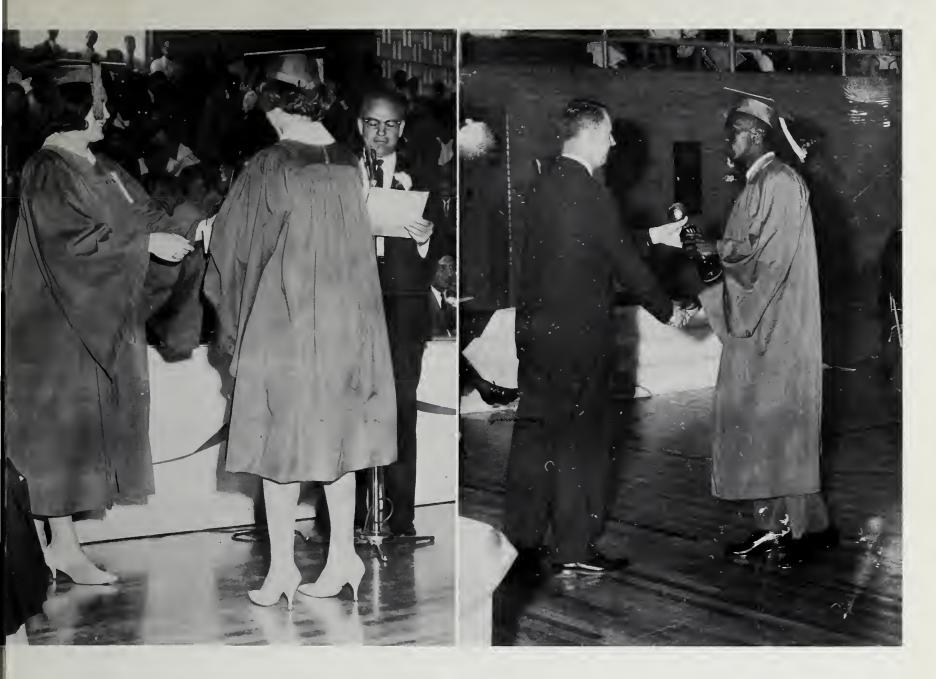

respond of the services of sold of the services of the service

Scholarship Banquet is given each year to honor Central students who have been on the Honor Roll and the Deans List during the year. Shown here being recognized are Richard Arbaugh, Willa Mae Steenman, Lyle Lantz, and Richard Lytle. Mr. Robert Dornte is watching the proceedings.

Scholarly students honored during recognition day

Scholarship Banquet and Recognition Day are two events at Central where outstanding Centralites are recognized and honored for their efforts in leadership. The Scholarship Banquet is for all students on the Four Year Honor Roll, and all students who made the six weeks and semester Honor Roll and the Deans' List.

The Banquet recognizes these outstanding students as the future leaders of the young generation. Last year, Dwight Shirey, president of the Patterson-Fletcher Company spoke to the students. He was presented the "Outstanding Alumni" award afterwards.

The Banquet was started some years ago as a substitute for the National Honor Society at Central. It has since grown to be an anticipated event highlighted by a distinguished speaker.

Recognition Day is held in the last week of May. It is the first time seniors don their caps and gowns to appear before underclassmen. It also marks the last day of school for seniors. At the program, trophies and scholarships are awarded to outstanding Central athletes and scholars.

Commencement climaxes four-years' uphill struggle

Class of 1964 under the direction of its class sponsors Mrs. Kay Klenke and Mr. Richard Levy, and its class officers Leonard Easterly, president; Steve Odier, vice-president; and Elaine Smithson, secretary; engaged in many academic and social activities throughout its last year at Central.

Instead of the annual Senior Banquet, seniors had a Reception for the first social event of the year. The senior class play, "Alas Babylon," was presented as a money-making project on Feb. 15.

Seniors selected several classmates during the year to be honored for their leadership. Among these were Jeanne Foote and Leonard Easterly, CHS Girl and Boy Best Citizen; Elaine Smithson, DAR Best Citizen and Girl Most Likely to Succeed; and John Hopkins, Sertoma Award winner.

Leading the class academically were 11 seniors who were on the Four Year Honor Roll. They were David Mueller, Saluditorian; Byron Smith, Valedictorian; Jacqueline Adams, William Christensen, Steve Derrickson, Jeanne Foote, Susan Grogg, Rita Grueb, John Hopkins, Elaine Smithson, and Susan Wolf.

As graduation time neared, Baccalaureate services gave more meaning to the last few weeks of school. Rev. Edwin A. Nerger spoke to the seniors on "More Than Conquerers."

"Portals of Tomorrow," the senior class dance, ended the activities for the year. A class of 279 received diplomas on June 4 after listening to the Commencement address by Dr. Dean F. Berkley.

As Paul Spuller and speaker, Dr. Dean F. Berkley look on, Richard Brooks receives his diploma from Mr. Schlecht, Dean of Students. Dr. Berkley spoke on "Garbage Dumps and Burial Grounds." Commencement took place on June 4.

The speaker, Doctor Dean Berkley, stands before the graduating class of 1964. There were 229 seniors that graduated last year. Commencement was held on June 4 and the students were grey caps and gowns. Baccalaureate services were held on May 31.

Donna Chapman, Otis Clark, and Kim Cress leave Commencement exercises after receiving their diplomas.

Learning--our great adventure--a precious thing

Dar. + Alperia

Most of our great adventure of learning took place in the classroom. We crammed and sweated, studied and prayed, trying to get just a little more knowledge stuffed into our heads.

Learning is a lifetime process; therefore, what we learned at Central was very little. Someone once said that a little learning is a dangerous thing. We at Central, however, found our little bit of learning a very precious thing.

During our high school years, we awoke to a new awareness of the things around us. We began to look whereas before we had only seen. We began to listen whereas before we had only heard. We began to love whereas before we had only liked. And most important of all, we began to reason whereas before we had only guessed.

We didn't waste our time on long but meaningless words such as supercalifragilisticexpialidocious. We spent a lot of time on simple, short, but profound words such as honor, truth, loyalty, beauty, persistance.

The most important thing we learned was how to learn. We learned that only when we get to work and make learning enjoyable, only then does it become a precious thing, our great adventure.

Mrs. Edna Chester quizzes her English students Dave Dilworth, Charles James, Gary Chunn, Sandra Harmeyer, and Tom Glover on grammar. Grammar instruction is one of the most important excreises in English class, as it improves speech and writing skills.

English students learn more than grammar

Mrs. Martone listens with interest while Everett Liggett gives one of the three hook reports due in freshman English.

The English Department has the distinction of having the largest staff at Central. It includes Miss Vera Baumgartner, Mrs. Edna Chester, Miss Catherine Jackson, Mrs. Helen Lee, Mrs. Patricia Martone, Mrs. Irene Rahmer, Mrs. Rose Schoonover, Paul Bienz, Wayne Brown, James McFadden, Larry Oren, and Delmar Proctor. Miss Jackson is head of the department.

Central has a program wherein a student may take four years of English if he chooses. However, students on the college prep course are only required to take three years of English.

Freshmen study the textbook, Adventures in Reading, and the classics, The Odyssey. Besides reading in their textbooks, sophomores in English read Silas Marner, The Pearl, Julius Caesar, and Elizabeth the Queen.

Juniors study short stories, poems, and essays from their textbooks along with the play Pygmalion. Among other things, the seniors read many of the Greek Tragedys, and study George B. Shaw's Caesar and Cleopatra.

Central students find English a very rewarding subject. By studying literature they learn to analyze and think subjects through. By reading about other people, they learn to know themselves and enjoy life a little more.

Gussie Green, Irene Grabowski, and Candy Roberts smile as they see the grade they got on a theme from Mrs. Rahmer in senior English class.

Jim Johnson, Shirley Love, Dick Guenin, Marjorie Louie, and Burnette Willis are shown as they discussed excerpts from the play, "Macbeth" in English class. This is one of the topics covered by juniors.

Mary Whitt and Richard Smithey seem to know this answer about sentence structure directed to them by Mr. Oren in junior English class.

The study of the stock market is an important exercise in economics. Harry Arbaugh, Leon Daggett, Carolyn Dixie, and Sandy Eicher study a chart of stock they actually owned.

Junior Sandra Brooks points out a section of the country before the Civil War to Louie Imbody in the U.S. History class.

Econ students braved windy weather to travel to Decatur, Indiana, the site of the company of which they are part owners. Stockholders of Central Soya company shown are Clara Imbody, Ron Hiatt, Susie Young, Terry Johnson, Linda Tucker, Teresa Douglas and Bonnie Crawford.

World's problems discussed in social studies classes

Central's sophomore World History students made extended use of maps and globes to locate many of the countries in our world.

The events, problems, and important people of the world, past, present, and future, are the topics discussed in social studies classes at Central.

Our social studies department includes United States history, world history, economics, government, and sociology.

Economics has been about the busiest class this year. Among other things it bought a share of Central Soya stock, took a tour of the Central Soya plant, and took a survey concerning the election. Government class took several field trips, one of them to the courthouse. Sociology class took surveys among the students to help them in their homework. All the classes got new books this year, the new world and U.S. history books having material about the assasination of President Kennedy and information about President Johnson.

The world around us offers many puzzles in government, taxes, wars, etc. The problems of the world are getting greater every day. By majoring in social studies a student can be aware of these problems and how they might be solved. Also, many Central students will be voting in the next presidential election. Social studies classes give them an idea of how to vote wisely.

Teachers in Central's social studies department include Clifford Richards, head of the department, Robert Dille, Howard Schneider, Miss Margaret Scheumann, Mark Schoeff, and Aaron Still.

Centralite Steve Kovets works on a drawing in art class as he rubs a small stick over paper covered with ink.

Students of art express thoughts with creativity

Sketching, crafts, lettering, posters, figure drawing, advanced and independent study, graphic arts, and art theory and history are the courses offered in the Art Department. Each course provides Centralites with knowledge of the many types of art and their backgrounds. Students learn to appreciate art in its various forms. Many CHS students planning an art career, major in this subject, while others take it as a minor.

Central's art teachers are Miss Phyllis Blakeman, Miss Blanche Hutto, and Mrs. Carolyn Wadlington. All three give students a variety of art work and knowledge.

Working on a dance sign in art class are Harley Adams and Sandy Mielke. This is just one of many projects they do in class.

Central's Art students learn different ways to sketch designs and drawings with many assorted colors and brushes.

Choir director William Wetzel directs the singers in one of their superb performances as the Tiger band awaits its turn.

Music students learn magic of melody

Mr. Wetzel leads three of his varsity choir members.

Mr. Keith Morphew gives awards to four band members, Linda McCray, Clyde Williams, Carlotta Hoagland, and Clara Imbody.

Central Music Department is very important in that it trains students to work in our concert band, concert choir, and varsity choir. Heading Band is Mr. Keith Morphew and Mr. William Wetzel is the Choir director. Under the leadership of these two men, the band and choir give three concerts a year for the students and to the general public.

The choir performs at school events such as the Thanksgiving Program and the Christmas Program. The band performs at pep sessions, basketball and football games, and marches in parades. Both the band and the choir are valuable to Central High School.

These students weigh out a solid substance before returning to an experiment where correct weights are necessary.

Andrea Clover, senior, takes a second reading on the balance while weighing her beaker as part of an experiment.

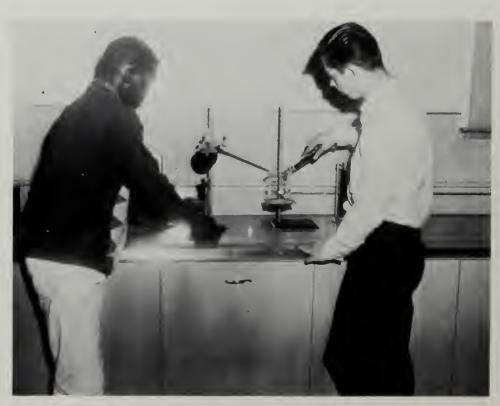

Mysteries Of Science Explored

Albert Reese and John Kizer seem very interested as they prepare for biology on lab day when microscopes are used.

Two of Central's freshmen carefully perform an experiment which will help them to understand their general science class better.

In Science Classes.

The mysteries of space and the atom as well as the wonders of life and death plague Central science students. They run electrostatic machines, find the specific heat of a substance, disect frogs, and brew all kinds of mysterious concoctions.

Physics, biology, physical geography, chemistry, and general science are the science courses offered at Central. Students on the college preparatory course are required to take at least two years of science. However, many students find it rewarding to take as many as four years of science.

Our science teachers may not be Einsteins, but they know their stuff when it comes to science. Our able bodied science staff includes David Griggs, biology teacher and chairman of the Science Department; Richard Horstmeyer, chemistry and physics teacher as well as sponsor of the Phy-Chem Club; Richard Levy, general science and biology teacher; and John McCory, biology and physical geography teacher.

Central students who are taking either physics or chemistry may join Phy-Chem Club, which offers members knowledge of these two subjects which is not found in the classroom.

Students may also participate in the Science Fair, in which students build projects dealing with science. Last year, Bill Doctor, a student at Central, placed second in the Science Fair and went on to the National Science Fair in New Orleans.

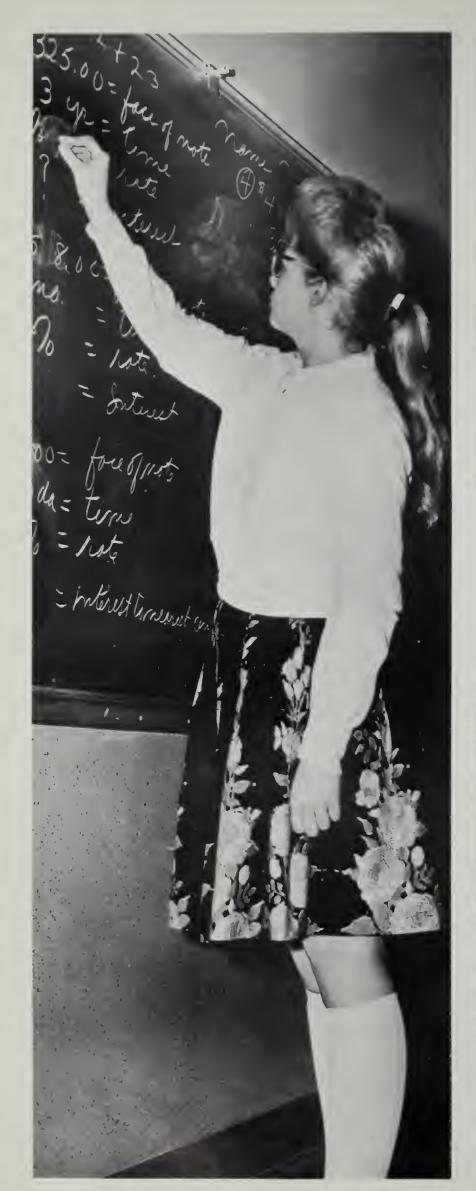

The importance of the science courses taught at Central cannot be stressed too greatly. We live in an age of space travel and atomic power. Science will play an even more important part in the world when the teens of Central grow up, so it is very important that they know and understand the world of science.

Cathy Harris answers Mr. Levy's question in general science class while classmates Jimmie Gardner and Simon Jackson listen.

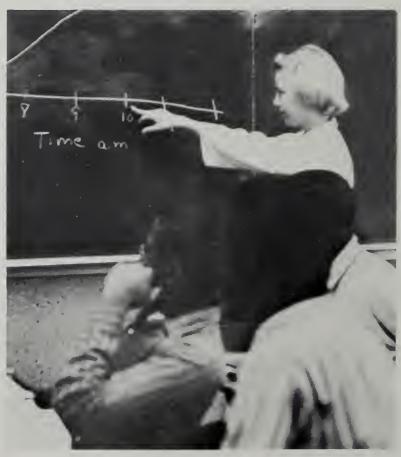

Miss Dorothy Ridgway helps junior Carrie Diehl with a difficult problem. Advance algebra class prepares one for higher math courses.

Linda Boger shows a scale in sixth period general math class.

Diana Budd demonstrates how to calculate "interest" for her class-mates. General math helps solve daily math problems.

Solids, negatives, positives puzzle math students

Mr. Rowe shows how the bisecters of angles form the midpoint of a triangle to two of his sophomore geometry students.

In a world of science and math, Central offers its students valuable guidance in the Mathematics Department. Courses in general math, algebra, plane geometry, advanced algebra, solid geometry, and trigonometry are taught to Centralites, preparing them for "space age" vocations after high school.

Leading the staff of math teachers is Miss Dorothy Ridgway. Other math instructors are Miss Leona Plumanns, Robert Dornte, Richard Horstmeyer, Russell Rowe, and Lester Williams.

The various math courses are designed to fit the needs of every Centralite. They give vocational-bound students the essentials necessary for modern-day household management and for job advancement. College-bound students are given the fundamentals for engineering and scientific courses, among others.

Each year, math courses in high school become more advanced and important, and more emphasis is placed on them.

James Bright and Carol Hampton observe a manikan in health class, which has been with Central for many years.

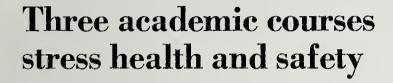

Strike Three! Softball provides good exercise and fun as gym class moves outdoors. Here, James White strikes out.

Physical Education instructor J. C. Butler leads some of his students in calisthenics in one of the daily gym classes.

Drivers training is important to future drivers. Without this class many accidents would be caused by uninformed and inexperienced drivers. Centralites should be proud of these facilities.

Three classes at Central, health, driver's training, and gym, stress the importance of health and safety.

Driver's training is concerned primarily with automobile safety. In this class, students learn the correct handling of a car by practicing on the driv-o-trainers and using textbooks. Students who take this course learn that courtesy of the road is the first thing to consider in driving.

Gym classes try to teach their members the importance of physical fitness. Boys' activities include cross country, flag football, soccer, basketball, volleyball, tumbling, track, and softball. The girls' gym classes include volleyball, dancing, kickball, basketball, tumbling, and softball. Student grades are based on attitude as well as ability.

The health classes teach the importance of a healthy mind, body, and spirit. As health is required at Central, every student who leaves has very definite health information.

These three classes are designed to stimulate in the student the need to conserve, improve, and protect his health in his preparation for adulthood.

Instructor Sis Arnold and student helper Diane Gorrell go through the steps as they teach the girls a new type of dance.

Ralph Charlton and Regina Graves inspect "George", the health department's educational visitor this past year at Central.

Home Economics girls prepare for future

Sewing, cooking, and family living are the three main divisions in the home economics course at Central. Girls also study child care, preparation of meals, care of home and its many electrical appliances, selection of fabric material, and the sewing and care of several outfits.

Mrs. Sara Carithers and Mrs. Natalie Hewes are Central's home economics teachers. Besides the other courses, they also teach the girls good posture and grooming, color combination, nutrition, ironing, and home furnishing. The future wives and mothers of tomorrow learn to become better homemakers and seamstresses in home economics classes.

Three of Central's Home Economics students prepare a meal on the stove to learn the correct usage of heat for food.

Girls learn all the basic fundamentals of good housekeeping in Home Economics. Proper table setting is one thing they learn.

This orientation class watches a film. Many outside materials are used to help students retain knowledge learned in class.

Orientation helps teens in growing up

Mr. Herb Banet lectures his orientation class. Here students are oriented to high school life. This class is given to frosh.

Planning the future, developing a likeable personality, learning about others, and growing up are problems all teenagers worry abuot. It is the purpose of orientation classes to solve some of these problems for the freshmen of CHS.

In one of the classes, much is done to help the student plan his future. He makes out four year program cards, takes aptitude tests, and studies the various aspects of different jobs.

The orientation student tries to find out more about that very interesing subject—himself. He studies heredity and environment and the part they play in his personality development. He learns what to do when his parents give him a car and other new privileges, and when he gets a job and starts to get all that extra money. He also learns the importance of good physical and mental health.

Orientation is a very important subject. It helps a young teenager prepare himself for the troublesome adult world, and it helps him to come to a better understanding of himself and the people around him.

Ronald Venderly and Herb Banet are our able-bodied orientation instructors at Central.

Mr. John Baughman uses an illustrated map to point out another aspect of Spanish history to one of his students, Ralph Anderson.

Think English is hard? Try Spanish, Latin, or French!

Mike Carrier and Mary Moreno wait for further instruction after practicing their French at the board in sixth period class.

Laretta Benz, Annie Ruth King, Larry Wray, and Willie Pinkston say the Pledge of Alligence in French during class.

Three foreign languages are offered to Central students— French, Latin, and Spanish. Miss Vera Baumgartner teaches Latin; John Baughman, French and Spanish.

Latin I students, after learning the five declensions of nouns and adjectives plus the irregular declensions, and the six cases of pronouns, they learned to conjugate verbs. Many faculty members and Centralites walking past the Latin room often found "amo, amare, amavi, amatus" to be familar sounds. Latin II students went on to translate Julius Caesar.

"Oui monsieur" is a familiar sound to French students. Learning vocabulary, grammar, and the hardest of all—pronounciation was on the agenda for these students. Besides translating passages and sentences from French to English, or vice-versa, French students also had an advantage of listening to records in French.

Spanish students also heard records in their "adopted tongue" to improve their pronunciation. "Vaya con Dious" is an all too familiar phrase to these students. Besides learning to speak Spanish, they gained valuable knowledge of Spain and the history of the language.

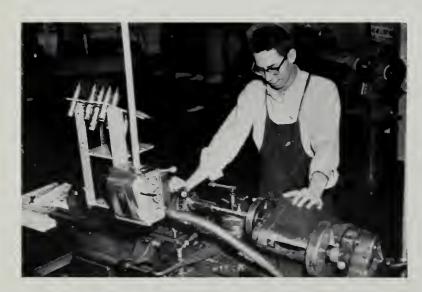

"Qui, quo, cum." These are just a few of the small expressions that these Latin students will use in the work they seem to be involved in. Students taking Latin are taught by Miss Baumgartner. Students at Central may take Latin for two years.

Dave Jump darkens in and draws dimentional lines thoroughly in Mr. Fatzinger's second period mechanical drawing class.

John Lapsley, Alan Arkwright, and Ricky Allen worked on a cell in electrical class while Mr. Alvis stands in the background.

This Centralite practices his welding in industrial arts class. Students use a variety of machines in this class.

Mechanically minded boys have fun in shop classes

Want to learn how to make a beautiful lamp, weld perfectly, or make a car do what you want it to? It's easy. Just take one of the many industrial arts courses offered at Central.

Central has the distinction of having the largest and most complete industrial arts program in the Fort Wayne area. Among the courses offered in this department at Central are general shop, auto, drafting, electricity, machine, woods, and welding.

The purpose of the department is to give students training in the art of handling tools, and to prepare them for a career in industry. This is done expertly by our able-bodied vocational staff headed by Marvin Todd.

Industrial jobs are plentiful and there is a great demand for men to fill them. Central is doing its part by giving students talented in this field a vast supply of instruction and knowledge which will enable them to hold a specialized job.

Business courses in three fields are offered at Central. They are stenographic, clerical, and general. This gives students a chance to choose the busienss course they need according to the field they plan to go into.

Many Centralites who hope to be stenographers find themselves in the stenographic course. Those completing the course will be able to type and take dictation.

In the clerical course, students can learn general office work, typing, filing, business arithmetic, and general office procedures.

Training students to meet people and how to sell is the purpose of the general course. It also teaches the students how to get along with sales persons.

The chief purpose of Central's business department is to give students a sufficient business background to enter the business world. However, the knowledge gained in this course can be helpful, no matter what field is chosen.

Pupils in public speaking fight fear of speechmaking

Students who like to talk find themselves at home in one of Central's speech classes taught by Mr. McFadden. However, many students like to talk, but still get "stage fright" when they get before the class.

In this way, public speaking helps most who take it. It helps them control their fear of an audience by giving them plenty of practice. They also learn to talk effectively by using gestures, emphasizing the proper words, using enough volume, standing correctly, and proper pronunciation.

After having taken a speech course at Central, most students can speak fluently and confidently. It helps the students in their other classes, helping them to overcome their fear of volunteering in class.

Students in speech classes have the opportunity to join the Forum Club, which gives them a chance to participate in many interesting speech activities. They also can participate in speech meets in the school as well as inter-school speech meets with other schools.

Students of journalism produce Spotlight and Caldron

Photographer Victor Berko makes a contact for the Spotlight out of the fix pan. He was kept busy taking activity shots.

Today, it is generally agreed that it is the spoken word which has the most influence on people. But the people who speak these words, where do they get the information that they use in the spoken word, from the written word, of course. So indirectly, the written word influences people greatly.

Students of Central get first hand knowledge of the written word by taking one of its journalism classes. The journalism classes consist mostly of students on the Caldron or Spotlight staff. Students who have an interest in journalism join one of the staffs and later take a class in journalism to help them in their publications work.

In journalism classes, students write stories, copyread, read galleys, take pictures, do layouts, and many other activities related to the journalism field. They acquire first hand knowledge of the written word and its effectiveness.

Mrs. Rose Schoonover is the teacher of the journalism classes. The first semester, there were only a few students in the classes, but the second semester there were full classes composed mostly of freshmen.

Riflers of Central learn importance of gun safety

Clinton Smith is shown proper methods of handling a rifle by Lieutenant Dave Waldrop of the Fort Wayne Police Department.

Main purpose of the Rifle Club is to learn the fundamentals of skill and safety in handling firearms. The ability to handle firearms properly is an asset to a student in later life. Students interested in learning these skills form the Central High School Rifle Club. The Rifle Club meets every Wednesday under the direction of Richard Rian.

Some of the important events of the Rifle Club this year were firing practice and class qualification which were held each meeting. The Rifle Club also established a team and met with other schools in the latter part of the year, this became the main event of the Rifle Club.

The Rifle Club had a total of 13 members and four of them were named officers. The officers of the Rifle Club were Tom Bennett, president; Arlie Wilson, vice-president; Herb Musser, secretary; and Smokey Smith, range officer. cheerleaders copy

Mr. Richard Horstmeyer, faculty advisor for Central's Student Council, takes notes on the proceedings during a Council meeting.

Student Council gives much help to Centralites

Faculty adviser, Mr. Richard Horstmeyer, talks over plans for coming events with the Council's president and vice-president.

"Encourage participation in school affairs, to practice the ideals and techniques of democracy, and to foster a spirit of co-operation between students and faculty is the purpose of Central's Student Council," stated Richard Horstmeyer, adviser for the organization.

Student Council has made several changes in Central's school policies this year. The biggest improvement was establishing new dance rules. The council, in accordance with the new ruling, also issued special "guest" tickets, so students not attending Central could enter the dances.

The representatives of Centarlites also changed the annual Christmas Basket Program. Students this year contributed canned food to the Christmas Bureau for needy families.

"The Student Incentive" program was also established by Student Council this year. The program was designed to encourage students to raise their grades by giving recognition of their efforts.

Members also arranged to sponsor a dance for Centralites. "Snow Flake Shuffle" was the first dance where the new rules were put into effect.

Student Council officers were Leon Daggett, president; Anita Adams, vice-president; Karlinda Tucker, secretary; and DeWitt McGee, sargent-at-arms.

Central's Marching Tigerettes this year were, back row: Jean Adams, Amelia Franklin, Norma Hides, Anna Rose Bell, Christine Harris, Rochelle Curry (head majorette), Mary James, Joyce

Head twirler Linda Tucker leads Marching Tigerettes

Jean Adams, Sheila White, and Velma Maxwell march proudly on the Coliseum floor at halftime during the North Side game.

Tigerettes, Central's twirlers, were organized differently this year. Instead of all the twirlers being in one large group performing at all the games, they were split up into two groups, varsity and reserve. The Tigerettes, under the direction of head twirler Rochelle Curry, who worked out all of their routines, marched during half-time at all home football and basketball games. They also opened every Central pep session.

Varsity Tigerettes this year were Norma Hides, Connie Roberts, Regina Rush, Egnee Smith, Barbara Stallings, and Karlinda Tucker. Permanent flag carriers were Anna Rose Bell, Charlene Heyneman, and Rosalind Page.

Reserve members of Tigerettes were Anita Adams, Jean Adams, Joyce Ambrose, Arnette Barnett, Alfreda Bledsoe, Diane Chapman, Amelia Franklin, Ann Harris, Diane Jenkins, Florine Lowry, Velma Maxwell, Donna Simmons, Jerrie Jabron, and Janice Whitfield.

Tigerettes officers were Norma Hides, president; Edgnee Smith, secretary; Rosalind Page, treasurer; and Barbara Stallings, historian.

Faculty sponsors for the twirlers are Miss Phyllis Blakeman, Mrs. Edna Chester, treasurer; and Mr. Keith Morphew.

Activities outside of practicing at least twice a week after school were a dance in November and picnic in May.

These two Tigerettes hold the colors of the United States' and Central's school flag high during a pep session in Central's gym.

Amateur Thespians had fun putting on two plays

Louie Imbody, Cindy Yarman, Sandra Mielke, Debby Littlejohn, and Leon Daggett share this climatic scene from the junior play given on Nov. 7. Cindy and Louie had the play's lead roles.

Central's dramatists labored many hours to produce two fine plays this year. The results were wrapped-up in the junior play, "Out of the Frying Pan," and "The Curious Savage," the senior play.

The novice actors and actresses forgot the time spent rehearsing lines, finding props, designing and creating sets, and fitting costumes, when the curtain closed for the last time and the lights came on in the auditorium, while the audience praised their work with applause.

Working closely with the students during all this was Delmar Proctor, Central's new dramatics coach.

Besides presenting plays, Drama Club also sponsored a dance in March for Centralites. Its hard-working members were rewarded for their toil with a year-end party. Members also received school letters and pins among other awards for points earned during the year on Recognition Day.

A job to do --- a Service Worker to the rescue

A valuable asset to Central is the Service Workers Club. This club is composed of students who give up their extra study hall and spend their time helping faculty members, working in the library, study hall, and the office. Service workers do everything from taking class attendance to mixing up chemical solutions for chemistry class. They save time for teachers by running errands and delivering messages. They also found time to sponsor a dance, "Presidential Prance," during the year. Faculty members place service workers on their "priceless" list at Central.

In charge of these responsible students is Mrs. Dorothy Vallance. She, along with senior Betty Jones, takes care to give the workers points, according to the number of hours a week they work. This ranged from one-half to five hours a week of service to Central. Certificates, and silver and gold pins were awarded to the students for their help.

Mr. Keith Morphew takes the band through warm-up exercises before rehearsing new music for the concerts.

CHS Band gives fine performances under new director

Alice Matson and Linda McCague march with the rest of Central's Tiger band down the side line at a home football game.

Central's Tiger band gained a new director and a big bundle of marching skill this year. Under the guidance of Keith Morphew, the musical Tigers were found on the football field every morning before school and every noon in the fall. They practiced and drilled on marching skills and new routines, and came up with some good ones.

As each month progressed, Centarlites became even prouder of their band. The Marching Tigers performed at pep sessions, all home football and basketball games, joined with the choir for three concerts through the year, and played in the Memorial Day Parade.

Band members also sponsored "Bass Clef Jerk," for Centralites in November. They enjoyed a Christmas party and a spring picnic to relax.

Officers this year were Roy Losievsky, acting president; Linda McCray, secretary-treasurer; and Jeanne Slagle, assistant secretary-treasurer.

As in most organizations at Central, band members are also able to receive awards for their work, ability, and service to the club and to the school. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors are eligible to receive pins for 1000 points. Central letter sweaters go to seniors who have earned 4000 points during their high school career. It takes approximately a year to accumulate 1000 points.

Practice is the key word fifth periods for members of Concert Choir. Choir members worked hours on end before combining with the band for three concerts this year. They also performed at the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter programs. Somehow, choir members also managed to sponsor a dance.

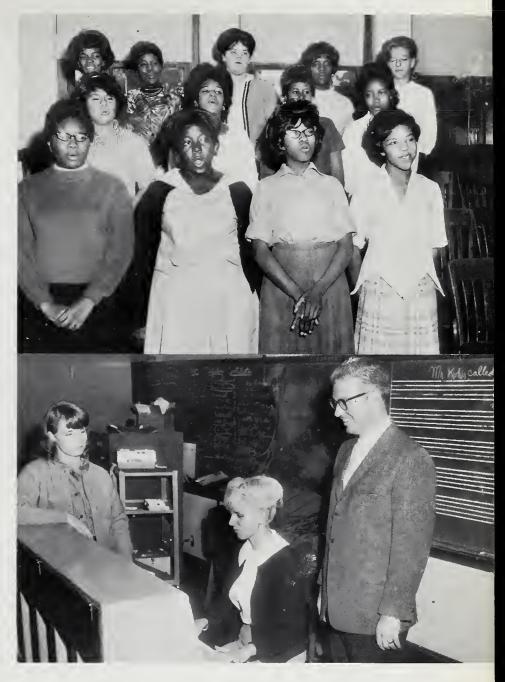

Choir director William Wetzel received help with the heavy schedule from officers Rochelle Curry, president; Welton Moore, vice-president; and Cecilia Files, secretary.

Two girls groups have been formed from Concert Choir members. They are the Harmonettes and the Centralettes. Harmonettes, consisting of Leann Cook, Sandra Eicher, Kay Franklin, Linda Gorrell, and Judy Taylor, is a feminine version of thee "barber-shop" quintet.

Central's Concert Choir practices for one of their many concerts. They gave three evening concerts and two for the student body. Director William Wetzel coached them in many state singing meets, at which many choir members placed first.

These girls made up the varsity choir for Central under the direction of Mr. Wetzel. They participated in many student concerts.

Booster Club promotes Central school spirit

Willie Gilbert and Carl Burnett prepare their routines for the Booster pep session along with Shirley Love and Cecilia Files.

Whenever Centralites feel the need for additional school spirit, dedicated members of the Booster Club will be found ready, willing and able. These peppy students are sponsored by Mrs. Patricia Martone and John McCory.

The year is a busy one filled with activity for all Booster Club personnel as they man a refreshment stand at all home games both football and basketball, bring additional spirit to the pep sessions, and attend their meetings on the first and third Tuesdays of the month.

The Booster Club holds an annual dance, banquet, picnic and Valentine pep session. During the year they also may be asked to assume the duties in the concession stand for other activities sponsored by Central High.

Some members of the Booster Club form their advisory council, usually consisting of nine members. This year they the Louie Imbody, Carolyn Dixie, Shirley Love, Candy Roberts, Patty McCormick, John Meyers, Darlene Adams, Carolyn Moore and Sharon Burch. These students are responsible for suggesting and carrying out the special Booster Club endeavors.

Officers serving the Booster Club during the past year were Patty McCormick, president; Carolyn Dixie, secretary; and Carolyn Moore, assistant secretary.

Students with creative flair Usually join our Art Club

Students who have an interest or have a natural flair in art meet once every week with Miss Blanche Hutto and Mrs. Carolyn Wadlington to form the Central High Art Club.

There are three purposes of the Art Club, social, educational and philanthropic. Students become better acquainted, discuss the potential of an art career, and are able to promote art in the civic field.

The Art Club members work very hard but are able to have fun while so doing. All the activity posters found on the walls of Central in promotion of various activities are to be credited to the Art Club. The members plan picnics, parties, programs and several dances in the promotion of fun for the club.

Attorney at Law Dennis Norman cross-examines witness Welton Moore in the Anthony Wayne Club mock trial in Mr. Richard's class.

Mock trial highlights Anthony Wayne Year

Anthony Wayne may be gone forever, but his memory will linger on by virtue of Central High School's Anthony Wayne Club. The aim and purpose behind AWC is to encourage student interest in history and government.

Anthony Wayne Club members meet every two weeks, with business meetings after the regular school day, and special programs in the evening. A dance is sponsored by AWC'ers during the fall term of school. Trips and other various activities are also held throughout the year.

Officers this year are Glen Allen, president; Welton Moore, vice-president; Candy Roberts, secretary; and Terry Johnson, treasurer-

Spotlight staff members learn trade of journalism

Layouts on Monday, fold papers Tuesday, assign stories on Wednesday . . . this is the way the Spotlight deadline schedule begins. It continues on and on for quite a few lines. Every day stories must be written, typed, copyread, headlined, and sent to press. When the gallies are sent back, they have to be marked, proofread, and cut apart. The layouts are then done from these-

Reporters are sent to every athletic game, every dance, and every school activity. They also try to cover all club meetings and interview outstanding Centralites.

Pictures for each issue also have to be taken every week. They have to be developed, cropped, and then sent to the engravers. After the pictures are sent back, as proofs, they need to be pasted down on the layouts. Central has four student photographers. They take, develop, and crop all the pictures for both the Spotlight and the Caldron, in their own darkroom.

Besides the editorial staff, there is also a business staff which takes care of all advertisement and the circulation of the Spotlight both inside and outside of school.

Major Spotlight staff members are Lyle Lantz, editor; Thyra Saffen, business manager; Clara Imbody, news editor; Susan Young, feature editor; Dan Walchle, sports editor; and Debby Decker, student adviser. Faculty adviser is Mrs. Rose Shoonover.

"We'd rather fight than give up our '65 Caldron," became the motto of publication members. They blackened an eye and wore signs as a publicity gimmick for the Caldron campaign. Here, Mrs. Schoonover artifically blackens Bobbie Maxwell's eye. Members of the Caldron and Spotlight staff joined in the "crusade" to boost yearbook sales.

Producing a yearbook --- a great adventure

Senier Debby Decker writes Caldron copy during lunch period. This year she was assistant Caldron editor and did various jobs.

A portion of the Caldron and Spotlight staff stopped their Caldron campaigning long enough to pose with their signs and black eyes.

"Where's my pencil now?" "Is there any more copy paper?" "I turned that in!" "Who's the head of the Science Department?" "Where are the football pictures?" "Tomorrow is the deadline!"

These are just a few of the usual comments heard daily in the Caldron office. Amidst the hustle and bustle of confusion is found a writer buried under stacks of papers and deadlines. Much serious time is consumed though, in the research and collecting of information for copy. More time and plenty of patience is used up while planning and making page layouts, taking and identifying pictures, writing copy, headlines, and cutlines, and selling advertising and working on the Caldron campaign.

Editor of the 1965 Caldron is Leonard Morris. Other major staff members are Debby Decker, assistant editor; Linda Zurzolo, business manager; Victor Berko, photographer; Connie Roberts, head bookhead; Dan Pallone, underclass and picture editor; and Jim Johnson, sports editor.

Work on the yearbook began last March, before the 1964 Caldron was completed. The work was continued through the summer, and was completed about the end of April.

Jim Johnson, Spotlight and Caldron photographer, checks over his schedule for taking classroom pictures and portrait shots.

Senior member of Press Club, Lyle Lantz, shows his skill at pingpong at one of the meetings. Press Club activities range from cards to football in an attempt to relax after working on publications.

Press Club promotes journalistic interests

Press Club is an organization composed of Caldron and Spotlight staff members who have earned 1500 points and are at least a second semester freshman. Points are earned by writing, typing, copyreading, proofreading, taking pictures, and selling advertisements. Points are also given for major staff position-holders.

The purpose of the club is to give the junior journalists a chance to relax and to reward them for their services to the school paper and yearbook.

Press Clubers meet on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at the home of one of the members. Their activities include two picnics, a Christmas party, and an annual awards banquet. Only outstanding Press Club members are permitted to receive awards.

Officers this year were Leonard Morris, president; Dan Walchle, vice-president; and Carol Hampton, secretary-treasurer. Publications adviser Mrs. Rose Schoonover is the sponsor of the club.

Press Club president Leonard Morris receives his Caldron letter sweater at last year's banquet from past adviser Jerry Woodring.

Serious moments do overtake Press Clubers. Dan Pallone wins a game of chess with Debby Decker while Jim Johnson waits his turn.

Forum Club officers this year were Nate Miller, vice-president; Joyce Burroughs, president; Patty McCormick, secretary; and Carol Scheuerer, treasurer. Forum Club is formed from Centralites interested in public speaking and those in speech classes.

Forum Club learns use of spoken language

Centralites Jim Burt, Cecilia Files, and Karlinda Tucker talk over their speeches at one of the Forum Club meetings.

Members of Forum Club competed in several speech contests and sponsored a dance this year under the direction of their adviser, James McFadden.

Trips were made by a few students to speech meets at New Haven in November, and to Ball State Teachers College in January. The Forensic Tourney took place in February, and members of Forum Club were entered in several Intra-Mural Speech Contests this spring. "Autumn Leaves" was the theme of their dance given in October. Other activities included radio, television, and community service speeches.

Members earn points for placing in speech contests. When the proper amount of points is accumulated, letters and sweaters are awarded to them. Ribbons are also given to those who place in the speech meets.

Forum Club exisits for the purpose of "stimulating interest" and to "give practice in speech" to Centralites.

Forum Club officers were Joyce Burroughs, president; Nate Miller, vice-president; and Carol Scheuerer, secretary.

Math Club members learn about facts, figures, fun

Candy and cookie sales in March and a picnic in May were some of the highlighted activities of Math Club this year. The club, designed to develop interest in and appreciation of the history, applications, and power of the science of mathematics, is co-sponsored by Miss Dorothy Ridgway and Miss Leona Plumanns.

First semester officers were Mike Overby, president; Neil Brown, vice-president; Darlene Adams, secretary; and Roger Sitcler, treasurer.

Officers for the second semester consisted of Bill Etzler, president; Roger Sitcler, vice-president; Sheila Curtis, secretary; and Marjorie Louie, treasurer.

An award of a book of mathematics tables is given to the outstanding senior member of Math Club each year on the basis of service to the club.

Senior Karlina Tucker stands in front of a Central Math Club meeting as head of the entertainment committee. The club meets twice a month.

Phy-Chem members explore world of Science

Mr. Horstmeyer helps Louie Imbody and Darryl Dyer with an experiment during lab. Accuracy and technique are important here.

Centralites interested in physics and chemistry don't have to leave their enthusiasm in the class room at Central. They have an opportunity to increase their knowledge in the field of science by joining Phy-Chem Club.

Under the direction of Richard Horstmeyer, students are able to view scientific demonstrations. Members also have a chance to hear lectures from guest speakers known in the science world. The most exciting and most talked about experiment performed during the year was the "Liquid Air Demonstration." Students also get a chance to discuss new advancements and achievements made in the field of science.

Officers of Phy-Chem this year were Tom O'Brien, president; Cindy Yarman, vice-president; Judy Taylor, secretary; and Ron Brittson, sargent-at-arms. Phy-Chem members also enjoyed a Christmas party and a trip to Chicago this year.

Central's Future Business Leaders of America were directed by Linda Nichols, reporter; Sharon Burch, president; Linda McCray, secretary; and Clara Imbody, vice-president. These girls held office the second semester. Miss Georgia Heal is faculty adviser.

FBLA members find that business can be interesting

Girls taking business courses and meeting the proper requirements for membership are shown being intitated into Central's FLBA Club.

FBLA officers Willa Mae Steenman, Sharon Burch, and Linda Nichols administer membership vows to awaiting initiates.

The main purpose of the FBLA is to promote the interest of Future Business Leaders of America. Through prominent people of the business world, they can get acquainted with their future jobs. This very important club of Central High School meets the third Thursday of every month, under the direction of Miss Georgia Heal.

The past year the FBLA took many tours. When they were not busy doing that, they invited business speakers to their meetings.

The officers of the FBLA were Sharon Burch, president; Donna Simmons, vice-president; Linda McCray, secretary; Willa Mae Steeman, treasurer; and Linda Nichols, reporter.

Prospective teachers find FTA informative, helpful

Future Teachers of America is an organization created to help interested students learn about the teaching profession. Officers this year were Dorothy Chambers, president; Doris Curry, vice-president; and Jeanne Dennis, treasurer. Mrs. Sara Carithers is the club's sponsor.

Activities for the year included a dance, "Rhythm and Schemes," Jan. 15, recognition of Central's teachers during Education Week, and two trips made by the officers to attend meetings connected with the area and state FTA organizations.

In order to be a member of FTA, students must be at least in the sophomore grade. They must fill out an application and be recommended by two faculty members. As an added project this year, the club worked on plans for awards for its members. These plans will go into effect during the coming year.

Centralites were saddened by the loss of senior Dorothy Chambers. Homeroom was completely silent as "Envoyage" was read in tribute to "Dot". Here is a portion of it: "... so believe in His great and good wisdom, trust in Him, as you patiently wait; on His ship God is ever the pilot, and the one you have loved is the mate." Dorothy will always be in the thoughts and hearts of those who knew and loved her, and will always be a part of the Class of 1965.

Future Teachers of America meet with Mrs. Sara Carithers, club sponsor, to discuss plans for their annual dance. FTA also gave each teacher an apple during Teachers' Week as a gesture of goodwill. Members heard various guests give lectures also.

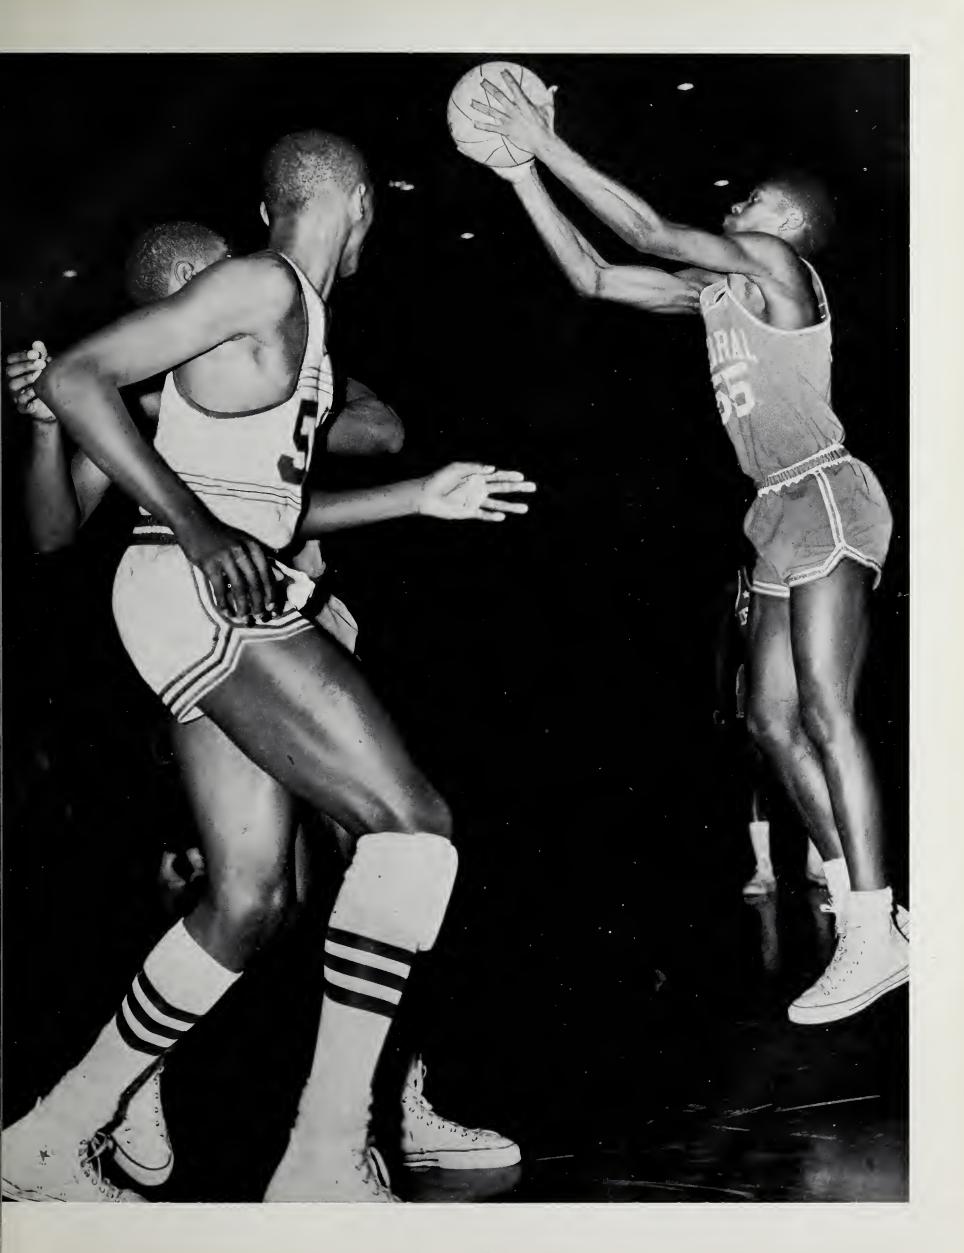

In sports, we learned of victory and defeat

We at Central this year supported our teams as school spirit reached an all time high. We cheered our basketball team on to win the city series title, our football team on to its greatest team record in several years, a great 18-1 record for the frosh basketball squad, and an almost as good 17-2 for the reserves.

We sat in the rain at football games, yelled ourselves hoarse at basketball games, and flinched every time a member of the wrestling squad was hurt. Booster Club's concession stand did a thriving business.

Athletics served us in many ways. For the participants, they provided a needed change from the physical inactivity of the classroom. They taxed the players' judgment as well as his muscular control. Central certainly did her part in President Johnson's physical fitness program.

Most of all, sports provided the spirit of competition, the challenge of an enemy to be beaten. And whether we won or lost, the team members as well as the students who cheered them on knew that they had done their best.

Dille's Tigers worked hard --- Captured City Crown

Guard Rick Tielker drives in for a lay-up against Harlan in the sectional, as Herman Williams looks for a possible tip-in.

Dilleman Jim Whitt has some anxious moments as he is guarded closely hy two Marion Giants in a game in Central's gym.

Central's Tigers, under first-year Coach Bob Dille, came through the 1964-'65 roundball season with a respectable 15-7 record. Games played out of the Summit City marred the record, for elusive of the Holiday Tourney, the Bengals dropped six contests, although one was later awarded the Tiger rounballs by a forfeit. The Tigers padded their season with games in town, winning ten of eleven matches.

The season opened up brightly for the quintet, as Elm-hurst, Central Catholic, and North Side fell in the first three games. The first out of town game found the Bengals on the short end of a six-point margin at New Haven. The Central squad then traveled to Indianapolis to face the always tough Attucks' Tigers, and before two busloads of fans, the Capital City quintet garnered victory. However the following week the Central squad was awarded a forfeit.

Central then got to the Marion Giants just in time, for after the defeat at the hands of Central, Marion reeled off about eighteen victories. The Tigers then traveled to Warsaw where they were beaten by another set of Tigers by a two-point margin. While others were celebrating Christmas, the Bengals were getting another present in the form of a trophy at Hammond. The Tigers mauled Hammond Clark before romping over Tipton, a tough team, for the championship.

Anderson's always tough Indians provided the next competition, and although held scoreless for nearly four minutes, the Indians scalped the Bengals by an eight-point spread. Elwood's Panthers then came to the Bengal's home court, and the Dillemen greeted them warmly, by handing them their only loss out of their twenty regular games.

With prestige gained over scraps with two top-ten teams, Anderson and Elwood, the Tigers turned their eyes toward the City Series title, and commenced to beat city foes. Concordia put up a great struggle before falling by four points, and the Dillemen then took South Side and Bishop Luers by sixteen and fifteen points respectively.

Another away game found the Central squad at the home of the Peru Tigers, and they came back to Fort Wayne with a seven-point loss. Elkhart's Blue Blazers welcomed the Tigers who gave them a rare loss on their own hardwood. North Side's improved Redskins, who later copped the Sectional crown from defending Central, tightened the City Series by blasting the Central squad by twenty-nine points.

Huntington was the sight of the next game, and the Vikings found the home court to their liking as they handed the Bengals their second straight setback. Central moved one step closer to notching another city crown by taking South by ten points, and clinched the crown with an overwhelming 91-65 victory over the Irish from Central Catholic.

The long season came to an end in the Sectional Tournament, as the Dillemen, after posting a twelve-point victory over a tough Harlan Hawk quintet, found the North Side Redskins too much to handle, and they dropped a 58-42

Members of the hardwood team, coached by Dille and his assistants Mark Schoeff and Buzz Doerffler, were Jim Whitt, Rick Tielker, Marzine Moore, Herman Williams, Bill Harper, Ralph Charlton, Earnest Wash, Charles Mollison, Glynn Gleason, Kipp Bailey, and John Lapsley.

First year mentor Mark Schoeff coached his fine Tiger reserve roundballers through an excellent 18-2 season. The team crushed the majority of its opponents by over twenty points, and losses to Anderson and North Side were the only blemishes on their record.

Central ran off eight straight victories before traveling to Anderson, where the Indians pulled off a win. The Bengals then won their own Holiday Tournament, and this began a seven game win skien which was halted by North on a last second shot which gave the Redskins a one-point margin.

The squad posted two victories each over the South Side and Bishop Dwenger quintets, while other opponents to fall were Elmhurst, New Haven, Crispus Attucks, Marion, Warsaw, Garrett, Elwood, Concordia, Bishop Luers, Peru, Elkhart, Central Catholic, and Huntington.

Tiger opponents were showed no favoritism, as the Bengals snatched victories from nine city foes and nine teams from out of town. They also suffered one defeat from an out of town quintet, and one setback from a city five.

Doerffler's freshman squad lost one game this year

Coach Buzz Doerffler, in his initial year as freshman hardwood mentor, brought his Baby Bengals through the season with a sparkling 18-1 record. The team suffered their only loss in the City Tournament, a two-point overtime setback at the hands of Fairfield.

After beating Central Catholic in the opening game, the team handed Fairfield its' only loss by turning them back by three points in overtime. The squad then captured eight more victories before playing Fairfield in City Tournament action. The Central quintet captured third place in the city.

Tiger opponents, seven in all, fell after the loss. The team defeated Portage, Central Catholic, Bishop Luers, Weisser Park, New Haven, and Bishop Dwenger in both of two contests. Village Woods, Aboite Township, Concordia, and Northwood also suffered defeats at the hands of Central.

Members of the team were Glen Williams, Bob Davis, Ellis Henry, Charles VanPelt, Mike Mitchell, Charles Reese, John Smith, Zondra Chapman, Wesley Dennis, Fred Holmes, Gene Brownlee, Travis Sanders, and Ted Hatch.

Central's Baby Bengals ran their lead over Central Catholic to eleven points with this tally aiding them to another victory.

"Go Tigers! Fight Tigers! Let's Win! This is an all too familiar sound at the pep sessions and weekend football and basketball games. Central's varsity cheerleaders and Tiger mascot this year consisted of four seniors and three juniors. They are Darlene Adams, Carol Hampton, Linda Koehl, Louie Imbody, Gaylord Moore, George Snook, and Jim Johnson. Donning new uniforms in September, these seven led the spirited Centralites through many terrific games with the Tiger opponents.

In November, five reserve cheerleaders were chosen to help with the basketball games. They are Jeanette Ambrose, Julie Flory, Judy Mattix, Carolyn Moore, and John Myers. Faculty adviser for the cheerleaders is Miss Margaret Scheumann.

Working together, these students kept the Tiger spirit moving throughout the student body. They revived old cheers, changed present ones, and created new yells, trying them out at the pep sessions.

Paul Bienz's pigskin squad had good season record

A spirited Tiger football team, coached by Paul Bienz and his assistants, went through the 1964 football season with a 6-2-2 record, the best compiled by a Central grid team since the 1959 campaign. Nosed out for the City Series crown by the North Side Redskins, the Bengals won four city games.

Goshen was the first opponent for the Bengals, and in a game played before school started, Central was off to a good start with a 12-0 whitewash of a stout Redskin team. Another away game found the Tigers in the Bulldog lair facing one of the tougher county squads. Falling behind 13-0 in the contest, Central fought back in the last stanza with two long scoring plays to force a 13-13 tie.

North Side, eventual city champs, was Central's first city foe. On a slippery field before a crowd sitting through a downpour, the two teams fought to a 6-6 draw. Central then went on the road again as they faced a strong Penn eleven. The Bengals came back to Fort Wayne with a 2-0-2 record as the Kingsmen fell 19-6.

Elkhart's Blue Blazers, number three in the state, spoiled Central's perfect record with a 33-6 triumph at Elkhart. Central was only a touchdown behind early in the second half before the Blazers began pulling away. South Side was Central's next city opponent, and the Tigers, pressed throughout the game, pulled away in the second half to win 26-7.

Central Catholic's Fighting Irish played the Bengals on a night when everything seemed to go for the Tigers. Stopping repeated Irish advances with fumble recoveries, one being turned into a 97 yard touchdown run, the Tigers won another game by a score of 21-0.

Elmhurst's Trojans put a real scare into the Central team before they were turned back 27-14. The Bengals jumped to a big lead, but had to hold on before a large crowd in a home contest. The Tigers city championship hopes were crushed in the next contest, as Bishop Luers handed the Bengals a 27-19 setback, giving North the title. Central got the first score and was behind the rest of the way, as an 80 yard kickoff return in the second half put the game out of reach. These two squads tied for second place in the city.

The Bengals closed out their successful campaign by romping over the Concordia Cadets 21-6. Tiger fans got a thrill on the opening kickoff as Central posted 7 points early on a 98 yard return. Another Bengal drive stalled at the one foot line before the score was brought to 21-0 on two more counters. Concordia, held in check by a stout defense displayed by Central, finally scored with 10 seconds remaining, ruining the Bengals' hope of a shutout.

The gridiron season ended on a high note as three Tigers made the All-City first team, three made the All-City second team, and other boys placed on the Honorable Mention list.

Shown here is the Tiger grid team that went through the 1964 campaign with the best record since 1960. The squad posted six victories against two defeats and two ties, taking second spot in the city. Seen from left to right in the first row are Jim Whitt, William Harper, Marzine Moore, Leonard Hairston, Amos Van Pelt, Lee May, Gilbert Johnson, Benny Duvall, Howard Martin, Albert Hines, and Charles Mollison. The back row consists of Herman Williams, Ken Stevenson, Ralph Charlton, John Lapsley, Ulysses Striverson, Mose Timberlake, Terry Johnson, Ron Woodson, Curtis Booker, Bill Etzler, Richard Harris, Randolph Jackson, Albert Reese, Jon Havert, Charles Mills, and Hollis Taylor. Coach Paul Bienz led the team to four wins against one loss and a tie to city champion North Side against city opponents. Dave Parrish (51), a cold spectator, Bob Murphy, and Coach Dave Flowers watch as the kickoff of a freshman game gets under way.

Central's freshman grid team completed their first campaign with a fine 6-0 record. The team was coached by Dave Flowers. The Baby Bengals shut out three of their opponents and allowed only 19 points during the entire season.

The Tiger offense collected 92 points in the six games and the teams they played were from the city. Concordia was beaten 19-0. Bishop Dwenger, in their first year of competition, was bested 14-0 by the Central squad. Bishop Luers was stopped 21-0, as the Bengals bested their opposition.

The two New Haven schools, Village Woods and New Haven, were also beaten by the Bengals. New Haven was turned back by a 12-0 count, and Village Woods dropped a 14-7 decision to Central's Baby Bengals.

Boys who participated on the team were Charles Blair, Gene Brownlee, Chester Chandler, Harrison Combs, Zondra Chapman, James Flowers, Wesley Dennis, Gerald Charles, Alandrous Harvey, Ted Hatch, Coleman Hatcher, Arthur Hides, Fred Holmes, Donald Huhges, Alf Hunter, Larry Ingol, Dexter McCormick, Michael Mitchell, Robert Murphy, Wynston Perry, Charles Reese, Joe Smith, John Smith, Narvis Thompson, Joe Timberlake, Charles VanPelt, Dennis Watson, and Glen Williams.

Trackmen have good record for year

Central's track team compiled a good 3-3 mark during the 63-64 campaign. They also tied for second in the Lime City Relays, where 7 cinder units saw action.

Warren Eviston's boys won a triangular from New Haven and Luers, a contest from Elmhurst, and then defeated the Archers from South for only the second time in 13 years to compile an even record.

Bob Hopson and Walt Pickett garnered the first two places in high jump competition as the Bengals were fourth in the sectionals. Ralph Charlton made a good showing in the broad jump. Improving as the season came to close, Central took third in the Regionals.

Central's only losses during the year were to Columbia City, Marion, and a Triangular to North. The team was composed of sophomores primarily, and these boys will be back for more action in the next two years. The season ended Warren Eviston's stint as coach as he will coach wrestling next season.

Cross country boys run hard for Central

Central's 1964 Cross Country squad, with new Coach Howard Schneider at the helm, finished out the season with a 1-8 record. Their lone win of the campaign came against Central Catholic, as the Irish fell twenty points behind.

The reserve squad ran against the same teams. The team pulled up even in eight contests, winning four encounters and losing th same number. They took contests from the Irish, Luers, Concordia, and Elmhurst.

The boys who run on the varsity squad are Bob Lane, Willie Smith, Ruthers Hawkins, Bobby Brooks, Tom Brown, and Benny Edwards.

Girls in GAA prove boys not only ones good in sports

GAA was led by Brenda Gold, point recorder; Diane Gorrell, president; and Charlotta Hoagland, vice-president.

This is the 39th year of the Girls' Athletic Association at Central. The girls that join GAA are inclined toward sports. Their sponsor is the girls' physical education teacher, Miss Lenna "Sis" Arnold.

These girls meet to play volleyball, basketball, soft-ball, and many other sports.

Girls who wish to join GAA must first earn 100 points in a six weeks period. The girls who meet the requirement of 100 points are then invited to join.

In GAA the girls are able to obtain sweaters, letters, trophies, and chevrons.

Besides being able to earn such awards and trophies, GAA builds girls physically and mentally. The competition of teams against each other develops an atmosphere for having fun and learning more about the sports being played.

The GAA officers this year were Diane Gorrell, president; Gale Scott, vice-president; Carlotta Hoagland, secretary; and Brenda Gold, point recorder.

"People, people who need people . . . " Well, maybe some people don't need people, but Central certainly does, for if there is a great adventure of learning, there must be people to live the adventure.

And Central had lots of people. 1200 of them bunched together, all sharing the thrill and excitement, the tears and the heartache, of high school; all yearning for knowledge. Central had people of all shapes and sizes, all races, creeds, and religions, all with a different ideal, all hoping to reach graduation.

All 1200 of us at Central shared the great adventure of learning. Whatever we went through at CHS, whatever we learned, we did it together.

Adults keep preaching about teenage violence and juvenile delinquents. But of these things, Centralites knew not. We only knew of good times and friendships, books and ball games, term papers and club meetings.

And if learning was a great adventure for an individual, knowing and appreciating 1199 other individuals was an even greater adventure for him.

Rick "Darlene" Tielker makes his entrance at the Poor Man's Prom after being introduced by emee Jim Johnson. Rick was later crowned "Miss Centralite, 1965" in the mock pageant.

Many seniors excell in various endeavors

The four year honor roll is an outstanding achievement. This year seven seniors attained this goal. They are: Cindy Yarman, Sandy Eicher, Judy Taylor, Diane Gorrell, Lyle Lantz, Andrea Zimmerman, and Linda Tucker.

Rick Tielker, valedictorian, shows Richard Arbaugh, salutatorian, a book, Crime and Punishment. Rick had a four year average of 95.77 while Richard's was 95.65. Rick was on the varsity basket-ball team while Richard was active in dramatics.

Miss Leona Plumanns shows an unusual expression as she talks with Mr. Robert Dornte. They are the senior class sponsors.

Sharon Burch and Jim Whitt pick up some paper on the lawn. They were selected as Senior Boy and Girl Best Citizen.

Diane Gorrell analyses a poem in senior English. Listening to her discussions are Judy Boitet Ken Potts, Ron Mudd, Leonard Morris, Lyle Lantz, Gussie Green, Susan Young, and Mrs. Irene Rahmer. Analysing becomes essential to seniors.

Central certainly is a huge high school---

Lester L. Grile
Superintendent of Fort
Wayne Community Schools;
A.B. and M.A. Inidana University. In charge of all public elementary and secondary schools in city.

Paul H. Spuller
Principal of Central High;
B.S. Ball State Teachers College, M.S. Indiana University, graduate work at Northwestern and Chicago Universities.
Enjoys traveling, fishing, and reading.

School boatd members shown here with Superintendent Lester Grile, are Mrs. Mary Welsh, clerk; Mr. David Peters, Mrs. Charlotte Cooper,

Mr. Leslie Fry, Mr. Phillip Sanborn, Mr. Clatence McNabb, Mr. Arthur Meyer, and Mr. Rex Potterf.

it takes 21 busy people to keep it going

Twenty-one persons are connected with the maintenance of Central High. Heading the list is Superintendant of Fort Wayne Community Schools, Lester L. Grile. Next comes the school board which works to insure proper academic environments for all students. Principal Paul Spuller is "head man" at Central. He carries out the wishes of the Superintendant and the school board. He is also in charge of the faculty and is responsible for the activities of every Centralite.

Edward Schlecht is Central's Dean of Students. He will take over for the principal in his absence. Miss Emma Adams is Dean of Girls. She has the job of making out the academic program of every student.

George Tricolas, guidance co-ordinator, helps collegebound students obtain information on colleges and institutions, and makes sure that they are able to meet the specified requirements. Murray Mendenhall, Jr. is Central's athletic manager. He schedules all athletic events, and takes care of tickets, programs, team buses, and uniforms.

School treasurer is Mrs. Winifred Ormerod. She takes care of all school money including that of the many clubs and extra-curricular activities. Attendance is taken by Mrs. Mary Watson. She keeps records of each student's attendance for the permanent files. Central's two school secretaries, on which the entire office faculty depends, are Mrs. Evelyn Crandall and Mrs. Mildred Keuneke.

Mrs. Mildred Keuneke gives Mrs. Evelyn Crandall some notes to type. This is just one of the many odd jobs the secretaries do.

• Emma Adams

Dean of Girls; B.S. University of Illinois, M.S. Indiana
University. Last summer principal of High School
Summer School. Enjoys antiques and playing bridge.

George A. Tricolas
Guidance Co-ordinator; A.B.

Ball State Teachers College.
Enjoys fishing, bowling, reading. Last summer took camping trip to Big Horn Mountains.

Winifred Ormerod
Treasurer, secretary. Last summer took trip to Kansas.
Enjoys music, sewing, and working in flower gardens.

Died Otolea 14, 170.

Edward L. Schlecht
Dean of Student; A.B. Manchester College; M.A. Columbia University, graduate work at Indiana University and St. Francis College. Enjoys traveling and fishing.

Murray Mendenhall, Jr.
Athletic manager and guidance counselor; B.S. and M.S.
Indiana University. Enjoys playing golf. Last summer worked in Wildcat League.

Mary Watson
Attendance clerk and study hall teacher. Last summer helped in summer school.
Enjoys being at home with family.

PTA works for interests of students, parents

Communication between parents and teachers is important to today's students. Shown here is Mr. Schlecht addressing the PTA.

Parent-teacher meetings are vital to teachers and students. Mr. Spuller is speaking at one meeting as Mrs. Clymer and Mrs. Green listen.

This is one of the many speakers who entertained the people who attended Central's Parent-Teachers Association meetings.

Custodians clean hall, cooks brew food

Central could not function without cooks and custodians. These two groups of people are a very vital part in the school life of every Centralite.

If there is a light to be fixed, broken glass to be picked up, a hall to be mopped, or a door to be unlocked, a custodian is always there. Custodians cut the grass, plant flowers, keep the fire going, and clean up messes made by students in study hall and the cafeteria.

And where would we be without the cooks? The day seems shorter when we have 4th and 5th periods to look forward to. And it is the cooks who make 4th and 5th periods possible. They cook the food, serve it, and then wash the dishes afterwards.

Three cheers for the cooks and custodians of Central, whom we could not do without!

Lunch is vital to all Centralites. These people who prepare the meals are Ruth Shepler, Helen Mielke, and Miriam Bartaway.

Central's cooks, Margaret Mathie and Katherine Hojer wait behind the serving counter for the lunch period to start.

Cook Hildegard Schoenemann studies one of the menus in order to serve Central students a well-rounded meal.

Custodians play an important role in keeping the school in shape. Here Kenner Vonderau cleans windows on the south doorway.

One of Central's many fine custodians, Gret Hall, replaces a much needed source of light power in the publications office.

Custodian Tony Bohde takes a check of the pressure on one of the furnaces to make sure that it is functioning correctly.

Beautifying the school involves a lot of work. Custodian Tony Bohde is planting a tree in front of the gym for this purpose.

Junior high students also work hard at learning

Mrs. Shearer makes out grades while students Nancy Cochrane, Deborah Young, Jim Butler, and Opal Noel, work diligently at their studies.

Mr. E. A. Charlton helps Lillie Cowan with her lesson. Other class members are Regina Blackman, Linda May, and Tyrone Bledsoe.

Even if we sometime overlook them or forget all about them, the students of Central Junior Division are as much a part of Central High School as we are.

They must go through the same process of learning as we do. They eat in the cafeteria, do homework, are thrilled at the excitement of a basketball game, go to dances, attend elub meetings. They do everything we do and in the same building.

For them, as for us, learning is a great adventure!

Mrs. Dougherty, who is a school secretary, is very busy at her desk in the Central Junior Division office. She is very helpful to Mr. Pfieffer.

Miss Alene Godfrey, eighth grade Language Arts teacher in the Central Junior Division, checks over themes in her spare minutes.

We are especially grateful to the following persons for their help in selling and producing this 1965 Caldron: Mr. Paul Spuller, homeroom teachers, and homeroom agents for boosting the sales drives; Miss Emma Adams, dean of girls, Mr. Edward Schlecht, dean of students, and Mrs. Mary Watson and Mrs. Sharon Rothenbuhler, attendance clerks and study hall teachers, for their patience and understanding when we stretched a few school rules to get our work done; Miss Leona Plumanns and Mr. Robert Dornte, senior class sponsors; Mrs. Carolyn Wadlington and Mr. David Griggs, junior class sponsors; Mrs. Irene Rahmer and Mr. John Baughman, sophomore class sponsors; and Mrs. Natalie Hewes and Mr. George Surber, freshman class sponsors, and club sponsors for prompt payment of assessments and understanding with special problems of their groups' pages; all classroom teachers for cooperation with individual portraits and with classroom pictures; custodian Raymond Meshberger and his staff; and Frank Carrol who cleaned up our many messes.

We are also grateful to Mrs. Winifred Ormerod, school treasurer, and Mrs. Mildred Kueneke and Mrs. Evelyn Crandall, school secretaries, for much assistance and patience; Mr. Carl Hartup, for special considerations and a beautiful job on prints; Watters Studio for senior portraits; Inter-State Studio, for underclass portraits; "Doc" Forsyth, for several sports pictures; Mr. Jack Bundy, representing the S. K. Smith Company, who produced the cover; Mr. Adolph Fritz, for his assistance as head of Fort Wayne Engraving Company, who made the offset printing plates; and Mr. James Keefer, representing Keefer Printing Company, who printed the book.

Special mention should also be made of the "understanding" shown by school press with the many problems encountered in meeting our copy deadlines.

THE MOON and beyond

Bright, new horizons await today's students . . . new technologies . . . new advancements on all fronts . . . even the moon and whatever lies beyond.

How far you go in this space age depends partly on your imagination but primarily on your education and training. Conquering new horizons will demand more of today's graduates—more knowledge, more skills, more training and more specialization.

Our Free Enterprise system, with its high living standards, gives you an opportunity to "shoot for the moon" in any field. Whether or not your target is reached depends on how well trained you are to launch your career.

Some starts gives that y hours to produce yearbook

We beated around this glant horseshoe desk, members of white Califfry furth shared the agony and the ecstacy of producing a yearbook.

Most of us learned a little about making friends and getter along with people. All of us learned how to have fun when working. Most of us learned a little about making friends and getting along with people. All of us learned how to have fun while ducing a yearbook. working. The agony came from staying up all night to finish Our task was to record the events of the year. Whether Caldron work, or to complete homework that was neglected. we did it well, only you can decide. Maybe you will soon It came from working against time to meet a deadline that forget who produced the yearbook, but we hope you will was impossible to meet. It came from missing dates and always remember the events we have recorded in it. We ball games and appointments in order to record the events of hope that in the coming years, you will glance through the Caldron. Perhaps the glance will bring sad memories or of a school year. Our ecstacy came with the finished product. It was happy memories or recognition of a friend you had forgotworth all the work to see before us the sum total of our work — a yearbook which will be treasured by so many for We of the Caldron staff would like to wish all students of Central success in whatever they may endeavor and all Producing the Caldron was a great adventure for us. the happiness in the world.
